Scotland 2030: Ethics and Values

Wednesday 1 April, 6pm to 8pm, the Scottish Parliament

Although always diverse, Scotland is more secular and multicultural than ever before, and likely to continue diversifying over the coming decades. Questions of ethics and values will continue to shape public discourse and political decision making, so where will we get our shared values and moral framework and how can we debate it openly and respectfully?

With Professor Mona Siddiqui and a presentation by Ian Montagu, senior researcher at ScotCen.

Chaired by Ken Macintosh MSP, Presiding Officer and Futures Forum chair
